

Why Choose Our Support Workers

We Know When to Step Up & Step Back

Empower Me Support Workers know when to provide the support you've asked for, and when to let you do your own thing.

They ask what you want support with, never assume you can't do something, and never do things on your behalf like talk to people for you (unless you've clearly set that expectation).

Respect

Empower Me Support Workers will respect you and always work to support your independence and choices.

Having our Support Workers will help make some things easier for you to lead the life you want.

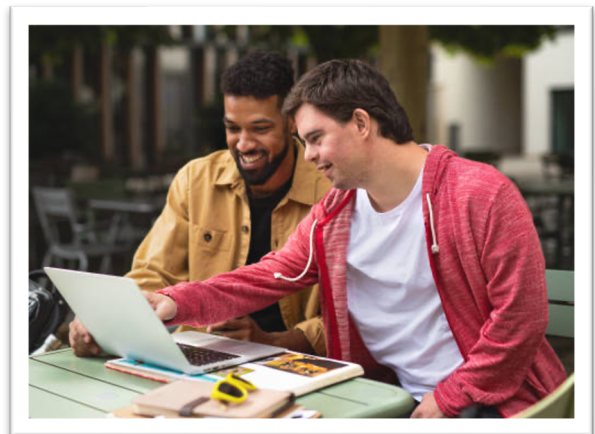

They will focus on your goals and how you want to achieve them, contribute creative ideas, and make sure your time together is valuable.

We Know The Value Of Communication

Empower Me Support Workers know communication is key to a great working relationship.

They listen to you closely and confirm they've understood.

They don't shy away from topics necessary to your care, but at the same time they don't intrude past boundaries you've set.

Great communication for you might mean using augmentative and alternative communication aids.

Empower Me NSW provides our client with the choice of their communication preference.

This includes the options for face-to-face, over the phone or via technology.

Patience And A Sense Of Humour

Because society still isn't fully accessible, everyday things like getting around town, browsing through the shops or even eating can take time, effort and a few mishaps for people with disability.

Empower Me Support Workers understand this, and always focus on problem-solving and putting your wellbeing at the centre of everything they do.

Getting frustrated and stuck on barriers doesn't help anyone.

Sometimes, you just need your Support Worker to have a laugh with you and find a way to carry on.

Our Support Workers can also help you connect with supports in your local area, including:

- Education, for example schools, universities, TAFEs and community learning programs
- Health services, for example GPs, nurses, hospitals, vision, and hearing services
- Community health services, for example dietetics, mental health services, counselling services
- Other government services, for example housing, transport, and family violence support services.

Reliability

Empower Me Support Workers are a crucial part of your daily life, so they will always be reliable and take their commitment to you seriously.

Our Support Workers will be on time, organised, and clear with you about their availability.

Choice And Control

Having choice and control over your life is very important which is why at Empower Me NSW there is huge emphasis on providing our participants with more choice and control under the NDIS.

At the very beginning, Empower Me NSW's Support Workers will see what works best with you and support you with every step of the way.
